NORTHFIELD

Norwich University Gets Certified Check For $100,000.

Norwich university on Saturday received the $100,000 bequest willed the institution by the late Col. Curtis S. Barrett of Cleveland, Ohio, an alumnus of Norwich. Messrs. George H. Gausson and S. Granger of Cleveland, Ohio, executors of the estate were in Northfield, Saturday and delivered to H. C. Cady, treasurer of the university a certified check. The receipt of the money at this time came as somewhat of a surprise as it had been thought that some delay would result because of the death of the late John L. Bacon of Hartford, who was one of the executors of the will. This generous gift will be added to the permanent fund of the institution and the income therefrom will be a great aid in developing the splendid educational work now being done by Norwich university. It will be recalled that Col. Barrett died at his home in Cleveland, Ohio June 20. He was a native of South Stratford and was in the class of '63 in Norwich university. He always retained a warm place in his heart for the institution and for his native state, having a summer home in Stratford, where he spent much time. He was a prominent and successful business man.

Miss Anna Denny, who has been an efficient clerk in the dry goods store of Boyles & Smith for the past two years, finished work Saturday night. Her place has been taken by Miss Margaret Marshall of Morrisville. Miss Marshall is an experienced clerk, having been employed both in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

Frank Miller, who has been in poor health for several years, was examined Thursday by Drs. Mayo and Johnson and pronounced insane. A hearing was held in probate court, Saturday in regard to his support, and he was found without means and was ordered to the state hospital as a state charge. Overseer Fisher and Officer Plunkett committed Miller to Waterbury, Saturday afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Congregational society was held Thursday afternoon and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John L. Moseley; secretary and treasurer, H. C. Cady; trustees, M. D. Smith, George H. Bailey, A. E. Denny; ushers, Leland J. Graves, Elam Bailey, Richard J. Stone, John W. Davi; collector, Denny. The report of treasurer showed bills all paid with a balance in the treasury.

Dean M. Wood of the Water Resources Branch, U. S. geological survey, was in town on Friday to establish a permanent gauging station for his department, and to provide for others and temporary methods of measurement of stream flow. The senior and junior classes of Norwich university were in attendance upon Mr. Wood, enjoying the explanation of his work, and practicing in the methods of measurement. The permanent station is at the bridge on the Hbushon farm, some 200 yards below the Rabodon dam.

E. O. Freeman last week purchased of the George W. Tiltonson estate the store and plumbing business for so many years conducted by Mr. Tiltonson, and has taken possession. He will retain George W. Cady, an experienced tinsmith, who has been connected with the business for many years, and who is popular with the trade. Mr. Freeman has had a long and successful experience in the granite industry, having been an inspector and superintendent of granite work for large concerns in Chicago and other cities. He came to Northfield several years since and was a foreman at the E. B. Ellis company's while the granite was being cut for the Union depot in Washington. Later he has been employed by Cross Brothers. During his residence in Northfield he has made many friends and is popular with all who know him.

Hard to Please.
Traveller (delayed in Drearhurst by washout)—Are there any objects of curiosity in this village?
Uncle Welby Gosh—Well, I reckon I've got as much curiosity as any old fellow you'll find. Where are you going mister, an' what do you feller fur a livin'—Chicago Tribune.

Wonderful.
We passed, in the course of an hour two dead cows and more than fifty dead chickens. A strong smell of petrol pervaded the atmosphere and there were wheel traces in the dust.
Sherlock Holmes became greatly interested.
"Watson," exclaimed he, after deep thought, "there has been a motor along."

Armored Nests.
In the countries where the cactus flourishes it is selected by various birds and other members of the animal kingdom as a place of refuge.

There is a special kind of woodpecker in Mexico, a clever bird, which furnishes an illustration of what birds will do.
If the traveler is near a mass of cactus known as the candle cactus he will perceive at some height from the ground a hole in the mass of spiny leaves that appears to be evidence of decay. It was really made by the woodpecker, which pecked away till it made an opening just large enough to get inside the armored tree. It then burrows its way down the middle among the pith till it is right in the center, and there it builds its nest and keeps the eggs from the great heat of the sun and from its enemies.

Rabbits make their homes in the cactus. They burrow under the roots and so keep clear of hunters, who do not appreciate the defensive properties of the plant. If any one attacks a cactus vigorously with a hatchet and manages to clear away some of the protecting spines, he will surprise a whole colony of birds and small animals, the latter on the ground floor and the former in the upper stories.

Fairly Accurate.
"How much does the baby weigh?"
"Just a ton."
"Impossible."
"Yes, we took it down and weighed it on the coal man's scales."

Tall Grass.

In Alaska some grass grows to the height of six feet.

Geraniums.
It is believed by the Turks that geraniums were originally swallowed and that their existence was changed by their touching the robe of Mohammed.
